

Sex Change at School: Should Parents be Told?

Saturday, 01 August 2009

A shocking lesson for children

A music teacher at Foxboro Elementary School in Vacaville, California, returned last fall after having a sex change from a woman to a man. Parents were never warned. School administrators said HIPAA privacy laws prevented them from notifying parents.

What do you think? Should parents have been warned? Email me your thoughts at craig@electionforum.org.
